

Suggested questions for reflection	Notes
What do you know about the individual learners you teach and their capabilities?
How do you make connection with other curriculum areas and with extracurricular interests?
How do you express your intercultural awareness in teaching and in daily life?
How do you use and develop your language abilities?
What recent activities have you undertaken to develop your knowledge of language teaching?
How do you decide on which methodology to use in your daily teaching? What factors influence your decisions?
What do you know and understand about the communities to which your students belong and their aspirations?
How do you contribute to your profession?
How do you increase understanding of the importance of diversity in your community?
How do you demonstrate to students how much they can successfully achieve in the target language?
How do you evaluate the success of your own teaching? What steps do you take to ensure your teaching continues to improve?

As a teacher of languages I...	The extent to which this is the case...	What would I have to do to move one step forward?
am passionate about languages and cultures and about teaching have a commitment to my own continuing professional and personal learning.
connect and engage with learners and inspire students and others.
have a belief in my students as emerging bilinguals/multilinguals developing the knowledge and awareness they need to become effective intercultural communicators.
adopt a critical stance on my own work and to myself as mediators of languages and cultures, which I demonstrate through reflection, questioning, inquiry and/or research into my practices, values and beliefs.	